Application forms and attachments are submitted to the administering Department Office. Student eligibilities (registration, preferred status, complete application package) are verified and qualified applicant packages given to instructors. The instructor selects a student and the instructor and/or Department Office notifies the student. Students may be considered, if qualified, for positions that they did not list on their application form. If there are unfilled positions, they will be posted a second time.

Positions posted are available subject to course enrollments, provision of funds, and application of suitable candidates. The University of British Columbia hires on the basis of merit and is committed to employment equity. We encourage all qualified applicants to apply. Candidates should discuss any position of interest with the instructor to determine special requirements prior to submitting an application.

Preferred candidates will be determined in accordance with the Collective Agreement, Articles 13.01 – 13.04. Preferred candidates (or reappointments) are full-time students in the Faculty of Forestry, (or Faculty of Graduate Studies interdisciplinary program), who submit applications for the posted session, have relevant qualifications and have previous satisfactory performance as a Teaching Assistant. Students are members of the Bargaining Unit from the date of their appointment.
